The University of Szeged (SZTE) is a prominent higher education institution, consisting of 12 faculties, located in Southern Hungary.

SZTE is an EU accredited institute and according to QS World University Rankings, it was the best Hungarian university in 2018. The University was originally established in 1581, since then it has been historically hosting distinguished scientists such as the Nobel Prize winner Albert Szent-Györgyi (1937), the first person to isolate Vitamin C.

To extend the great path, SZTE is now proudly announcing the opening of application for the Academic year 2019-2020.

To assure that all talented and hardworking students have the opportunity to attend University, SZTE offers various numbers of scholarships such as SZTE Start Scholarship.
